Save A Calf, Save A Cow

UW-Madison Division of Extension is offering a Save A Calf, Save A Cow workshop series for dairy and beef producers, and dairy workers (in Spanish).

This workshop provides information and techniques to boost your confidence in preparing the cow for calving, obstetric techniques and newborn calf care. From transition cow diets and body condition to recognizing key signs of labor and handling difficult deliveries with precision, this program equips you with practical strategies to support both cow and calf health. Whether you're seasoned or new to livestock care, you'll gain hands-on expertise to approach calving with assurance, improve outcomes, and enhance the well-being of your herd.

The virtual (Zoom) classroom covers getting newborns off to a good start: neonatal calf care and colostrum management; and cow nutrition and management: pre- and post-calving health and reproductive success. During the in-person session, participants will learn about and practice stages of labor and signs to watch for, when to call the vet; calving equipment options and sanitation; worker safety –cow & calf handling/needles/PPE/ biosecurity. National Dairy FARM continuing education is available for attending the entire series.
